March is Social Work Month

Social workers play a key role in improving student health and success; many have the difficult task of communicating with both parents and students. March has been designated as Social Work month by the National Social Work Public Education Campaign, a multi-year effort to improve the public perceptions of social work.

The Head to Toe Conference understands the benefit of having highly trained social workers in schools and we consistently offer continuing education contact hours for our attendees. We have been approved to offer 10.75 hours by NASW-NM; a small service that we hope our social workers in attendance appreciate. We certainly appreciate the work they do and would like to extend our thanks.
